PICK A START DATE

This is the date you began inventory tracking in Craftybase. If you've just created your account, your start date is automatically set to the date you signed up, however you can change this if needed.

- Change your Craftybase start date
- How to initially backdate your stock in Craftybase

ADD YOUR SALES CHANNELS

Craftybase integrates with a number of popular marketplaces and storefronts, such as Etsy or Shopify. Connecting your channels will import your products, variations and orders automatically on a daily basis.

- Connect a sales channel
- About sales channel importing

COUNT YOUR ON-HAND MATERIALS

Count how many of each material you have, then enter the quantity and unit cost for each material. This is your starting adjustment and what you'll be tracking from your account start date.

- Add or remove a material
- About material starting adjustments

COUNT YOUR ON-HAND PRODUCTS

Count each product you have on your shelf, and enter the quantity and unit cost for each. Your unit cost is how much it cost you to make a single unit of your product, not including labor.

- Add or remove a product
- About product starting stock levels

WHAT ARE THE NEXT STEPS?
